#SeeUsSupportUs

This October, join See Us, Support Us, a month-long, national campaign to increase supports for children of incarcerated parents. We invite you to join the SUSU Network, affirming your commitment to SEE children whose parents are incarcerated and learn how to SUPPORT them. This year, SUSU focuses on the importance of child-centered visits and removing barriers to visiting.

children in the U.S. has lived with a parent who was incarcerated
during their childhood.
That's 2.7 million children,
nationwide.

Most incarcerated parents are in prisons over 100 miles away from their children.

- ▶ Hear from children and families about what visits mean to them.
- ▶ Learn tips for supporting children's relationships with their incarcerated parents, including how to support children before, during, and after a visit.
- ▶ Learn about actions you can take to improve children's access to their parents including supporting legislation that would improve visiting.
- ▶ Visit The Osborne Association Resource Toolbox to learn strategies for supporting children of incarcerated parents.
- ▶ Join the See Us, Support Us conversation:
 - Download the Social Media Guide for tips about how to join and share the conversation.
